HLAD DIALOGUE IS A SUCCESS STORY

The Commissioner Stefan Fule, before attending the HLAD meeting in Skopje, had a meeting with MPs working on EU Affairs in the Assembly of the Republic of Macedonia. In the introductory address, Mrs. Radmila Sekerinska, Chair of the National Council for Euro-Integration welcomed the Commissioner and stated that the National Council has been working efficiently, reaching consensus on all issues that have been topics for a debate in the Council. "The activities of the Council have been undertaken with only one goal - to give contribution to the Euro-Integration process of the country, to constructively add to the accomplishment of the strategic goal of the Republic of Macedonia for membership in the EU. The high Level Accession Dialogue (HLAD) proved to be a good instrument not

Commissioner Fule welcomed the MPs, expressing gratitude for the always substantial and live debate when meeting him before each HLAD meeting. He also welcomed the role of the Council which should promote inclusiveness and unity in the state, things that are essential ingredients for the accession process. HLAD brought good results that initiated huge reforms in crucial areas, such as freedom of the expression, rule of law and fundamental rights, reform in the public administration, electoral reform and strengthening of the market economy. The third round of HLAD is very important since it offers possibility to see what has been done and it is a direct link between the incoming Progress Report and the recommendation in the Report and the decision of member states in the European Council in December. HLAD is based on ownership and inclusive dialogue with the society, and its aim is to send a positive message to Brussels for the integration process of the state. HLAD is a success story, said Commissioner Fule.

Mrs. Silvana Boneva, Vice-President of National Council stated that more of 140 measures have been undertaken by the Government and the Parliament and despite the turbulences, the reform agenda came to the forefront in the state. Mr. Aleksandar Nikolovski, Vice-Chair of the Foreign Policy Committee, welcomed the reforms under HLAD and called for respect of the Hague decision and for dignity regarding the adjective

"Macedonian". Mr. Andrej Petrov, Vice Co-Chair of JPC, asked for a date for start of negotiations for EU membership. Mr. Ziadin Sela said that his party DPA, will be a watch-dog for the state not to turn away from the EU integration process. Mrs. Tanja Hafner, representative of the NGOs called for greater inclusion of the society in HLAD and later on in the negotiations for membership. Mr. Naser Selmani, representative of the journalists, welcomed the progress made in the legislation related to libel and defamation in the Government and expressed expectation that once adopted; the legislation will improve the situation in the field of freedom of expression and the media.

PRESIDENT VELJANOSKI AT THE CONFERENCE OF PRESIDENTS IN STRASBOURG

President Veljanoski took part in the debate on the Future of the European Court of Human Rights – role of national parliaments and on the topic Is representative democracy in crisis? Challenges for national parliaments. Regarding the role of national parliaments in the future of the European Court of Human Rights, President Veljanoski, stated that the process of changes and promotion of the system for protection of human rights urgently puts the position and the role of the national parliaments on the agenda, since they are institutions where the culture of the rule of the law is being built. For a multiethnic, multireligious and multicultural states as the Republic of Macedonia, the protection of the rights of ethnic communities is an important indicator for the level of democracy, as well as for the level of harmonization with the European standards and values. The equality of ethnic communities in Macedonia is deeply embodied in the Constitution and its legal order, implementing the Ohrid Framework Agreement, as one of the main pillars for development of democracy, and an important element for internal as well as regional security and cooperation.

President Veljanoski supported the initiatives in PACE for a new, additional Protocol of the European Convention for Protection of the Rights of Minorities and reminded that some member states have not fully implemented the decisions from the Court of Human Rights and do not respect the reports and recommendations from ECRI, the CE Commissioner of Human Rights, the UN Special Rapporteur, and other international organizations regarding the recognition, preservation and development of the rights and freedoms of the national minorities.

Regarding the representative democracy and the challenges for national parliaments, President Veljanoski underlined that the essence of democracy lies in the participation, competence and competitiveness in the election of political representatives, but also in their responsibility before the electorate. He recalled Abraham Lincoln's saying that democracy is "rule of the people, by the people, for the people", which in conditions of parliamentary democracy will mean "rule of national representatives", but harmonized with the will of the people. In this context, President Veljanoski said that politicians should all hear every remark to safeguard the advantages of this kind of political community, so that it may further on fulfill citizens' expectations and interests. There must be respective level of fruitful political dialogue, and this level must be preserved, with a tendency of building true, not artificial parliamentary debate, said President Veljanoski.
